NOTICE OF TRANSFERRED RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT RIGHTS

This document is a notice of residential development rights that exist on property in Weber County (“County”) following the transfer of such rights either to or from the property.

- A. Eden Crossing LLC (“Owner”) is the owner of the parcel of land that is more fully described in Exhibit B (the “Property”).
- B. Owner has applied to the County for approval to take one or more of the following actions with the Property, in accordance with applicable laws and ordinances:
 - a. Receive one or more transferred residential development rights on the Property, either to utilize the rights for future residential development on the Property or to utilize the rights in a future transfer to other property; or
 - b. Transfer one or more residential development rights to another property or reserve one or more residential development rights for future transfer to another property.
- C. Approved transfers are accounted for in the tracking ledger (see Exhibit C, the “Tracking Ledger”), which shall be the estimated accounting of available and transferred residential development rights for the Property.
- D. County staff’s signatures on the Tracking Ledger indicate the County’s approval of the proposed transfer(s).
- E. The Tracking Ledger shows an estimated density calculation, based on information available at the time of execution of this notice. The actual number of development rights available depends on multiple factors, such as existing zoning, future zoning, development standards, area unsuitable for development, survey-level accurate legal descriptions, etc.
- F. Owner acknowledges and agrees to the following:
 - a. Any future transfer of residential development rights shall require County approval, along with a new notice of transferred residential development rights if required by the County.
 - b. If Owner is transferring residential development rights from another property, neither this notice nor the County’s approval of the transfer is sufficient to authorize Owner to use those rights on the Property; any such use, and all future development on the Property, must comply with applicable laws and ordinances and must be separately approved by the County.

- c. If Owner is transferring residential development rights to another property, those rights shall not be available for future use on the Property.

G. Owner authorizes the County to record this document, including the Tracking Ledger, on the records of the Property in the Weber County Recorder's Office.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned has caused this notice to be signed by its duly authorized representatives, as of the day and year first above written.
