Jeffery

You asked several questions in our phone discussion today. I will try and answer those questions in this email.

1. Central Weber Sewer Improvement District does not make the decision as to when the Subdivision Plat is recorded. Central Weber has never suggested or specified any requirements relating to Subdivision plats.
2. The annexation requirement and process is totally separate from the recording of the Subdivision Plat. The Annexation Plat is Recorded separate from the Subdivision Plat and requirements are as specified by the State of Utah Code.
3. I did look up in the County Records and the two parcels of property you are referring to are NOT Annexed into the Central Weber Sewer Improvement District. This process should be completed before a building permit is issued. I am attaching the requirements and supporting documents to complete the Annexation process. Let me know if you have any questions.

Please let me know if you have further questions or need any additional clarifications.
