

I am attaching several photos in the following pages. This is because it is difficult for me to find a contour map which depicts my little property in detail. Hopefully these will help show the strong slope that is my backyard.

It is difficult at times to see through the dense trees. This summer I have started to create a break around my property to help prevent fire damage to my property should it become a problem.

1. The first picture is the view from my deck. You will see that there is a trampoline. Behind that all you can see is the tops of trees. Where the trampoline is located is all fill dirt that I brought in over the years so that there would be a yard in the back. Otherwise, the yard would slope off into the hill.
2. The second picture is a closer look at the hill just behind that trampoline.
3. The third picture is a look at what is directly behind/below that trampoline.
4. The fourth picture is the proposed location for the pool, looking from the house back.
5. The final picture is the proposed location for the pool, on the other side of the trees. This is to show how much flatter the ground is on this piece as contrasted by how much of a slope is directly behind the house.
6. Pictures 3 and 5 were taken from the same location – almost right on the property line between the two lots - but looking in opposite directions. Three looks towards the lot with the house while five looks towards the lot where we propose to build the pool.
