Subject: Concurrence, Drinking Water Source Protection Plan for the East Well;
Wolf Creek Water and Sewer ID; Water System #29013, Source No. WS006

Dear Robert Thomas:

The Division of Drinking Water (the Division) received the Drinking Water Source Protection (DWSP) plan for the East Well from your consultant, Cascade Water Resources, on July 21, 2022.

We have completed our review of the DWSP plan, stamped and signed by Richard Emerson, P.G., and dated July 21, 2022, and find that the plan basically complies with the applicable portions of Utah's Administrative Rules for Public Drinking Water Systems. The Division concurs with this plan. We commend you for establishing a program to protect this source from present and future contamination. This plan must be updated often enough to ensure that it reflects current conditions in your protection zones.

The due date for submitting the next updated plan is December 31, 2028.

You must submit proof that the delineation has been provided to Weber County to be covered by their Source Protection Ordinance before the well can receive an Operating Permit.

Reminders

As stated in R309-600 and 605: Implementing DWSP Plans - Each Public Water System (PWS) shall begin implementing each of its DWSP Plans in accordance with the implementation schedule within 180 days after submittal if the plan is not disapproved. Be prepared to describe these efforts in your next update, which should include documentation of how the land management strategies identified for existing and future potential contamination sources were implemented. Your updated plan will be disapproved, and 25 Improvement Priority System (IPS) points will be assigned for failure to comply with this requirement.

As stated in R309-600 and 605: Recordkeeping - As a DWSP Plan is executed, the PWS shall document any land management strategies that are implemented. Please provide actual copies of memoranda of understanding, public education programs, bill stuffers, newsletters, or other correspondence documenting the implementation of each land management strategy as it occurs, in this section of your updated plan.

Please contact Deidre Beck at (385) 271-7046 or via email at dbeck@utah.gov if you have questions or concerns about the review of your DWSP plan. Contact Emily Frary at (385) 515-5271 or via email at emilyfrary@utah.gov if you have any questions about your monitoring schedule. To help us serve you more efficiently, please use the water system number (29013) in your correspondence.
